

Majoring in Visual Communication at Istanbul Commerce University, my enthusiasm for interactive web design led me to pursue essential web technologies where I met with the tools of a Front-End Developer. Most of my technical proficiency derives from long hours of self-taught research.

I can deliver complex projects from scratch, build interactive banners, provide graphic support and technical insight where necessary. I've had the privilege of working for global brands (such as Hyundai & Huawei), as well as local entities (like Opet, N'oluyo, TVTY) either directly or through my employer.

In the line of duty, I'm obsessively perfectionist, always trying to provide the most optimal solution. I'm striving to be as versatile as I can to learn whatever is necessary to finish the job. I believe in organized, easily maintainable, lightweight, cross-browser compliant code to deploy rapidly on any project as I enjoy working efficiently in a creative environment.
